

March 18, 2009

Blue River IT is proud to announce publication of their new web site this month. The new website will provide resources & assistance for new and potential customers, as well as, a complete overview of our technical services and solutions. Blue River's new site also now allows easier access to the latest Architectural & Certified Engineering Capabilities & provides direct communication with our Chief Technology Officer.